The Greenback party in Iowa has lost half of itself. It's the half that had the head on, too.
It is the Americans who will give up at Yorktown this time—give up their pocket books.
The only advantage which the Prohibition candidate for Governor in Ohio seems to have got is a good deal of free advertising for his elder press.
Trotter has won another race in England and won it in a canter. England may as well send its purses over here, and save the American turfmen the trouble of going over there after them.
The State of Pennsylvania has brought suit against the Standard Oil company for the collection of $3,000,000 alleged to be due for taxes, penalties, and interest. In proportion to which that great corporation is making even that amount seems to be only a fair sized poll tax.
Why don't the Democrats rejoice? They elected one justice of the peace in Ohio. That was a greater and more honorable victory than that which they snatched for Bayard one day, and had to give up the next. At any rate it was more satisfactory to that justice than it was to Bayard.
Smuggling has been increasing so at Windsor, opposite Detroit, that the officers have given their old policy of keeping the names of the arrested ones out of the papers. As a consequence several high-toned ladies and gentlemen find themselves not only fined, but freely advertised. There are times when folk show great modesty about being given a personal notice, and this is just such a time. It will have a salutary effect, though.
The Jews in New York city are discussing the advisability of having their religious services on Sunday instead of Saturday. Rabbi Kohler advocates the change because business proves stronger than religious duty, and but few attend the Saturday services. The proposed change is said to meet with the approval of many. Business before religion, as well as business before pleasure, seems the rule of action, if not of morals.
The British lion has placed his paw on several other agitators. John Dillon has been arrested, James J. O'Kelly, another member of parliament, is also under arrest, and a warrant is out for Arthur O'Connor, another member. Five thousand troops, with twenty rounds of ammunition, are stationed in Dublin. The mob spirit is showing itself, and excitement reigns throughout the kingdom. It seems as if all that Great Britain is the greatest agitator of all.
Guilou is so afraid that there will be some trouble about proving him insane, that he owns up, and says he is crazy. That is about the surest proof that he isn't. He thinks, too, that the President was killed, not by his bullet, but by the malpractice of the doctors. He hasn't had a chance to read the papers until lately, and is probably still two or three weeks behind, and has doubtless not finished the bulletins. When he gets caught up, he will begin to think that perhaps he killed him after all.
The Democrats are in hard luck. They could not get anybody to take their nominations as a gift, and it was only after much urgency that the places on their ticket were accepted as a matter of charity to the party. Now that they have a ticket, they don't know what to do with it. They cannot think up a single good reason why it should be supported. With the excellent record of the Republican administration staring them in the face, the Democratic party drops its eyes, twirls its thumbs, and says it wants a change—"cause." But the people don't see any "cause" for a change.
Financial prosperity is one of the common attendants of a Republican administration, and it is therefore no surprise to learn that the United States treasury is in an exceedingly healthy condition. The surplus for July, August and September has averaged $13,000,000 per month, and if

YORKTOWN.

Disheartening Predictions Touching the Fulfillment of Brightly-colored Promises.

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 16.—General Hancock, speaking of the centennial celebration, said to-day that a great many promises had been made that would be hard to fulfill. This bids fair to be a conspicuous feature of the celebration. In fact, all but the ceremonies under the government auspices have already been abandoned. To attempt such a programme as was laid out by the Centennial Commission was a chimerical scheme to begin with, because Yorktown practically stands in a desert. A great deal of the money subscribed has been spent by Colonel Peyton, agent for the commission, and barn-like buildings put up, the Moore House rehabilitated, and operations carried through that promise little return for the outlay. As far as the government is concerned all is ready, and a hundred acres of tents are pitched about two miles from the village.

This has been a busy day. Early in the morning the entire brigade of regulars was out pitching tents for militia, governors' staffs, and Masons, and but a few more are to be put up. The regulars were all disgusted because they had to pitch the tents for the militia, but the Secretary of War ordered it done, and they were compelled to do it. The Maryland and New Jersey brigades arrived to-day, as well as the cadets from the Virginia military institute. They went into camp and added to the bustle that has filled the day. Mounted orderlies, marching troops, and the blasts of bugles, have combined to confuse the Sabbath most effectually.

Still Yorktown is unhappy. Not a title of the people have come yet that she expected to entertain; then, too, she is disgusted because the celebration is to last but a week instead of a month. The greatest trouble arises from dust, which lies six inches deep in the streets and on the field where the review is to take place. It rises in white clouds at the least touch of the hoof or wheel, and how soldiers are to manoeuvre across it is a question. The dust they will raise will equal a desert sand-storm. General Hancock said that he was thinking of an attempt to sprinkle it, but he still hopes for rain, and if it falls he does not know what he can do. The naval officers say "that the affair on shore will be a fizzle," but they are no desert prophets.

In addition to the militia there are on the ground about 1,000 regulars, being part of the Tenth Infantry, and companies of the First, Second, Third, and Fifth Artillery. Small as the force is, it is more men than have been concentrated east of the Mississippi since the war, except once at the Pittsburgh riots. Colonel Olitz commands the brigade and Major General Hancock commands the field. He has a capacious camp on the high bank of York river, near the Moore house, but the General, with his family, his staff, and the great majority of his staff, live on board the magnificent steamship St. Johns, which he brought around from New York.

There are nine ships of war lying abreast of the town, the Frenchman not yet having arrived. The river is as busy with the shore with preparation. A great fleet of oyster schooners, butchers' boats and tugs have come with supplies, for everything had to be brought. There was nothing but sand to begin with, on which some 200 people struggled for existence. Now there is plenty to eat, and the abundance of the supply in comparison with the crowd promises to prevent extortion. Colonel Peyton's building was utilized to-day by the Catholics, who celebrated high mass at noon. Bishop Keane, of Richmond, conducted the services. A chorus of seventy-five voices had been collected from Washington, Boston, and Richmond, and they were supported by a grand orchestra. It was intended to be an opening of the

Now there is plenty to eat, and the abundance of the supply in comparison with the crowd promises to prevent extortion. Colonel Peyton's building was utilized to-day by the Catholics, who celebrated high mass at noon. Bishop Keane, of Richmond, conducted the services. A chorus of seventy-five voices had been collected from Washington, Boston, and Richmond, and they were supported by a grand orchestra. It was intended to be an opening of the ceremonies under the auspices of the Roman Catholic church, and was a magnificent service. The trouble was, only a few hundred people were here to attend it. The Catholic societies from Richmond formed most of the congregation. The Committee of Arrangements are in receipt of the following information to-night relative to the officers and organizations to be here to participate in the celebration: Governor Littlefield, of Rhode Island, and staff, started to-day for Yorktown; Governor Hoyt, of Pennsylvania, and staff will be here Wednesday morning; Governor Bell, of New Hampshire, and staff, with a battalion of 150 men, will arrive in the morning; Governor Blackmon, of Kentucky, and staff, with a Kentucky battalion of State Guard, Bowling Green Guard, and battery from Louisville, will reach here tomorrow afternoon. Governor Smith, of Wisconsin, and staff, and Governor Culbertson, of Illinois, and staff, are expected Tuesday morning.

Governor Foster telegraphs the committee that the attempt to represent Ohio has been abandoned. Governor Jerome, of Michigan, and staff, and 350 members of the Legislature and officials, and six companies, forty men each, with a band of twenty pieces, will arrive with the Michigan contingent Tuesday morning. States will be represented so far as known yet.

MAHONE'S MATTERS.

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 16.—The following "card" explains itself: WASHINGTON, D. C., October 14.—To THE PUBLIC: The speech of General Jubal A. Early in Richmond, on October 11, 1881, has been read by me, so far as it refers to myself. The rank of General Early in the confederate army entitled the speech to that much. It brings me to decide whether I shall demand satisfaction from General Early for what was intended by him as an insult. After years of unprovoked malice and inattention he presents the issue squarely and grossly. It admits of no discussion, and would neither be met nor evaded by recrimination. I accepted it. My decision, arrived at advisedly and maturely, is that the rank of General Early, which is his sole claim to recognition, does not outweigh the other considerations which forbid such recognition. The public of Virginia need no specifications of the facts concerning General Early on which I rely for this action. I only desire to make it known that I am not ignorant or neglectful of his speech. He could give me no satisfaction and I can have none, even in describing him as he is. He is known of all men. He may, therefore, proceed with his falsehoods and would-be insults assured of immunity, so far as I am concerned.

DEATH OF GOV. WILTZ.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 16.—Governor Wiltz died at 12:30 this morning.

FROM DEBT TO DEATH.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 16.—C. F. Holz, aged 70, an old settler here and once a prominent architect, is believed to have committed suicide. He lived with his son-in-law, Henry Dickelman, on the West side, and on Wednesday morning left home. Thursday morning he was last seen at Heinemann's saloon, corner of Market and Division streets. This morning his son-in-law found an envelope marked "To be opened when I am three days dead," and on opening it found that Holz had merely written that he had left his will at Heinemann's. A debt of $450 which he was unable to pay is believed to have been the cause of the old man's suicide.

Bogus Certificates.

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, barks, &c., and puffed up by long, bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well-known valuable remedies, the furnishing of its own certificates of its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines.—E. change. See another.

WASH-OUTS.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 16.—It commenced raining here at 10 o'clock this morning, and at midnight it is raining still. Intelligence from throughout the State received at the railroad offices show that the storm is general. Serious washouts exist on the Prairie du Chien, Racine and Southwestern, and the river divisions on the St. Paul road, that at Escanaba, on the Prairie du Chien division, being five miles in length. This division of the road will not be opened for a week. The Lake Shore and Western contemplated suspending all night trains, but as the storm along the line is lighter to-night, the trains are still running, but on slow time.

Not Back 12 Years.

"I was troubled for many years with Kidney Complaint, Gravel, &c.; my blood became thin; I was dull and inactive; could hardly crawl about; was an old, worn out man all over; could get nothing to help me, until I got Hop Bitters, and now I am a boy again. My blood and kidneys are all right, and I am as active as a man of 30, although I am 72, and I have no doubt it will do well for others of my age. It is worth a trial.—Father.

WHO IS HE?

MADISON, Oct. 16.—Sunday morning the body of a man was found on the track of the Chicago, Milwaukee, & St. Paul railway, four miles east of the city, with both legs, one arm and the head off. Near the body was found a package of 11 Stenala Tribunes, of Chicago, of different dates. The body was not recognized.

VIRGINIA "HONAH."

Ridderberger and D. W. Wise. Exchange Four Shots—Nobody Hurt. RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 15.—A hostile meeting took place this afternoon about ten miles from Richmond between Capt. H. H. Ridderberger and the Hon. G. D. Wise. Four rounds were fired without either being hurt. Mutual explanations and an amicable adjustment followed. Previous to the above meeting Captain Ridderberger and Richard F. Beine, editor of the State, met for the purpose of fighting a duel, but when all the parties appeared upon the ground selected, it was found no caps had been provided for the pistols, so Ridderberger rode away to Wise. Wise and the editor of the State have been arrested and placed under bonds to keep the peace.
